Other articles, too numerous to mention, either on hand or made to order.

The superscribers would modestly infer to the most gracious public of the State of Oregon that they would gladly exchange any or all of the above articles for "READY MONEY," or any other article of commerce that will by the conveyance give pleasurable sensations to the high contracting parties.

The life-spring of trade, "is ready cash,"
No matter in which way we view it,
Enables us onward to dash,
And therefore we mean to stick to it.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 4, 1863.

TRAVELLING AGENT.

Mr. Urban E. Hicks is the duly authorized agent of the Daily and Weekly Oregonian, with full powers to receive and receipt for subscriptions, advertisements, &c., and to finally settle all outstanding dues to this office in Washington Territory, Victoria and British Columbia.

The Day we Celebrate.

The associations that cluster around this anniversary ought to be enough to inspire all patriotic hearts with new and earnest devotion to the Union,—to the blessed liberty by which that Union is made valuable and a priceless treasure to every American citizens. Recollections of the past,—the memory of the faithful deeds of those "just ones and true," who fought and bleed that we might live and enjoy the inestimable privileges of freedom; hopes of the grand future before us,—all those should fill our hearts with lively emotions of gratitude and quicken in us the most earnest patriotism.

We rejoice that we are surrounded with indications of unswerving fidelity to the glorious pledge made by our ancestors; that the men of Oregon to-day feel as the men of '76 felt, when they pledged their lives, fortunes and sacred honor in liberty's cause. The life of our nation is secure. We are a distant, perhaps a weak unit in the whole, but we claim to be as truthful as any to the pledges made in our behalf, and God helping us, we will redeem them. The noble, the loyal sentiment of all Oregon, rushing upon us in a tide, which we welcome and joyfully recognize,—all loyal, all loving with full hearts the Government and desiring its complete, triumphant supremacy over all powers arrayed against it, will be now as ever faithful to the principles upon and by which we have ever acted.

Rebel Peace Demands.—The Sacramento Union very appropriately remarks: From rebel sympathizers in our midst we hear a good deal of talk about peace, as the only agency by which the Union can be restored. This is the style in which they talk, though the leaders are well advised that peace would secure the independence of the rebel Confederacy. This is the only ground upon which the rebels are yet ready to accept a peace. In on of the Washington letters of Erastus Brooks, who is one of the editors and proprietors of the New York Express—which is a bitter Copperhead—he enumerates the conditions which the rebel leaders demanded not long since. Brooks said:

> All wars must have an end, and this scourge of our nation with the rest. But the rebels are not ready for peace, except upon their own terms. They would not even make peace by surrendering to them the free navigation of the Mississippi, with the independence of the Cotton States. They desire the territory of the Federal Capital, all of Maryland, all the territory of the Old Dominion, all Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri, and the forts and arsenals on the Southern coast. They would not only dwarf the old Union, but destroy it. Such a surrender would not only be pusillanimous and cowardly, but so disgrace us before the civilized world that every foreign power would rightfully spit upon us. Better at once become the hewers of wood and drawers of water for the Southern Confederacy than enter upon such disgraceful negotiation. Life would have no charms, honor no home, peace no permanency, Government no solid basis, in a country thus debased by its leaders.

When rebel-sympathizing Democrats urge peace upon the people, the latter should remember the only terms upon which that peace can be obtained. Let the people reflect that the peace which men who call themselves Democrats are advocating is one which would admit the independence of the rebel States and forever disgrace the Government of the United States. The war can only cease with honor to the nation when the arms of the republic are triumphant, and the rebels renew their allegiance to the National Government. The leaders in this infamous rebellion are very well aware that they can have peace within the next two weeks if they will accept it upon the terms offered. Those terms are simply that they cease their armed opposition to the authority of the nation, assume their position again as States in the Union, and fill up their representation in Congress. By an acceptance of these terms the rebel States would be placed in the same position politically which they occupied previous to their insane attempt to dissolve the Union and establish a Southern Confederacy. The only change in the condition of those States would be that which has been caused by the deaths and devastation which inevitably accompany war. In death and devastation the rebel States have suffered a terrible punishment for their wicked and causeless revolt. But the leaders of the rebellion have possessed the power from the start to put a stop to the ravages of war by simply laying down their arms and submitting to the legitimate authority of the National Government.

Another Hero.—An incident in the siege of Washington is given in a letter from a Massachusetts officer, from which it is copied in the Boston Post. When the pilot of the steamer Escort was shot in the head, he grasped the tiller for twelve minutes afterward, steering his boat safely beyond the rebel battery, exclaiming that if he could only take Gen. Foster safely by, he was willing to die. He accomplished his wish, and nobly perished in the performance of his duty.

Confiscation—Semmes—A Hint.—It is not a little remarkable that, up to this time, nothing has been done, even here, to enforce the confiscation law passed at the second session of the late Congress.

There is, in the District of Columbia, not less than seven or eight millions of dollars' worth of property belonging to notorious rebels now in the Confederacy, and most of them in the rebel army. These men are rapidly covering up and absorbing this property, getting it protected by mortgages or transfers to friends here or in the North, and so, as they suppose, securing it beyond danger of confiscation.

It is a curious illustration of the good natured way in which we still carry on the war that Lieut. Semmes, the commander of the Alabama, still owns three houses in Washington, two of them near, one on Pennsylvania Avenue, which are duly rented by his agent, and on which the rents are, without doubt, duly collected and forwarded, in lawful currency, to the lawful owner, as aforesaid.

It was not so strange that Lieut. Semmes' wife should be quietly residing in Cincinnati while her husband was preying upon our commerce, but that he himself should be deriving his private income from rents regularly collected in the capital of the Nation, is refreshing. Isn't it about time the proper authorities were getting ready to enforce the Confiscation law?

By the way, I see Lieut. Semmes' wife has been notified to leave Cincinnati. Before she goes, there is one return she ought to make for the forbearance which has so long been extended to her—a return we should the more naturally expect, inasmuch as she cannot but despise the baseness she might thereby expose. Let her furnish to some officer of our Government the letter in her possession written to her husband by an Admiral of our Navy!

Many a reader has doubtless puzzled himself in trying to decipher the astonishing scrawl on the face of every "greenback," followed by the words "Treasurer of the United States." It is a pity the signature is so utterly illegible, for the name of F. A. Spinner is one that deserves to be remembered. In the darkest hours of the rebellion there was no man whose hope was so unconquerable as his; and now that we have passed the crisis of our danger, it still does one of weaker faith good to get in his presence.

At a chance meeting at the dinner table the other day, it was particularly refreshing to hear his account of a little affair with a young Captain in the army. The Captain wanted a newspaper, but would buy none except the World. He never read any other, wouldn't have anything to do with any other. Gen. Spinner had been a witness of the colloquy with the newsdealer. "Then, young man," he burst out, "you've got the wrong uniform on. You ought to be in the rebel army, where your sympathies are, and I'll thank you for your name!" The young gentleman in straps was unwilling to give his name. "Then you're a coward too; willing to sympathize with the rebels, but too cowardly to take the responsibility of your sympathy!"

"Burnside's order is the best thing I've seen yet" said the General. "Let these people who sympathize with the rebels go and cast their lot with them. They have no business among us. For my part, I long ago made up my mind that no man could utter treason in my presence, without getting knocked down; and that he couldn't long breathe the same air with me if I could help it!"—Cor. Cin. Gazette.

U. S. Treasury Notes a Legal Tender.—The New York World of June 4th, says:

> The Supreme Court—sitting in general term—decided this morning that the holder of a mortgage executed prior to the passage of the Legal Tender Act could not be compelled to receive payment of the mortgage in legal tender money, on the ground that it was unconstitutional for Congress to impair the validity of existing contracts. A decision by the same Court, sitting at Rochester, was lately rendered in precisely the opposite sense, and other State Courts throughout the West have likewise upheld the constitutionality of the law. An appeal has been taken to our Court of Appeals, which is understood to be prepared without the least delay to reverse the decision of the Supreme Court and pronounce the law constitutional; and meanwhile the point will come before the United States Supreme Court, on appeal from an Indiana Court, within a few weeks. The decision created but little comment to-day, as it has long been generally understood that the Judges would decide us they have done. It has likewise been pretty generally known for some time in business circles that before the Act was passed, the frightful consequences which would ensue from its being pronounced unconstitutional were foreseen by Congress, and the members of the Supreme Court of the United States were privately consulted, and the Act drawn so as to be certain of their indorsement.

The New York Times, in its money article of June 3d, says, on the same decision:

> An effort was made to-day to advance the price of gold upon a decision of the Supreme Court for the City District of New York adverse to United States Notes as legal tender. But as this decision carries no practical legal weight until reviewed by the Court of Appeals at Albany, and the Supreme Court of the United States at Washington, and as it is in direct conflict with the unanimous opinion previously pronounced by the Supreme Court of the Rochester District, it is not likely to create much sensation. It carries no moral weight in the face of the recognition, by the Legislature of New York, of United States Notes as a legal tender for the interest upon the State debt and the order of that body to the Controller to pay the April interest in no other medium. The recent unanimous decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of The People ex rel. Bank of Commerce vs. The Commissioners of Taxation, establishing the power of Congress to exempt United States securities from taxation, as an incident of the power to borrow money, sustains in principle the decision in the case made in the Rochester District, viz.: that Congress may make Treasury Notes a legal tender, as necessary and proper for the purpose of giving to them the credit and currency essential to borrowing money thereon, and to raising and maintaining the immense armies and navies demanded by the emergency.

How they Punish Riot.—A Dayton (Ohio) dispatch, in speaking of the damage done at the late riot in an office of one of the journals of that city, amounting to some $250,000, says that the persons concerned in the riot are to be taxed, each equivalent to their means, until a sum is raised to defray the loss, connected with their outrage, besides a term in the penitentiary. If the instigators and perpetrators of riots were all punished in this way, there would be less disposition to violate the laws by mob violence. That State has gone one step in this direction, by making the county in which a riot occurs responsible for the damages done by a mob.

No Later.—The stage brought no later news from the East last evening.

Abbott's History of the War.—We are informed by Urban E. Hicks, Esq., that he has received the appointment as an agent for John S. C. Abbott's "Great History of the Civil War in America," and will leave this city on Monday next, to canvass all that portion of Washington Territory west of the mountains, Puget Sound, Victoria and British Columbia. This great historical work cannot be equalled in merit and attractiveness by any other on this subject. Mr. Abbott, the well-known and popular author of the "Life of Napoleon," "History of the French Revolution," &c., &c., undertook this work at the special solicitation of many influential men connected with the U. S. Government, and who have rendered him all the aid in their power towards throwing light on this war. He has spent much of his time in Washington since the commencement of the war, seeking information upon the gradual development of this civil war, and in visiting the armies of the various campaigns, and has had free access to such sources of information as will enable him to produce a full and accurate history of the whole contest. It will aim to give an accurate and impartial account of the Great Struggle, to furnish clear and vivid descriptions, by pen and pencil, of military and naval engagements, of the heroic deeds performed by armies and individuals, of the touching scenes in the field, the camp, and the hospital, and to sketch the character and achievements of the prominent actors on both sides. The name of the distinguished author, and his popularity as a Historian, are sufficient guarantees for the high character and literary excellence of the work, and we unhesitatingly recommend it to every one who desires a correct, thorough and impartial history, giving details of the greatest and most important events the world ever knew. The work is warranted to conform in every respect with the description in the prospectus, and those who subscribe for it will not be expected to pay their subscriptions until the delivery of the first volume, and not then unless the work is as good as recommended by the agent. The first volume has already been issued and is being distributed as fast as possible, but the extraordinary demand for the work in California, (some 60,000 copies sold) has prevented it from reaching this city yet, a few copies, however, are expected on the next steamer after which a sufficient number will be shipped to supply this State and Washington Territory. We doubt not that Mr. Hicks will be able to dispose of at least 1,000 copies throughout his district.

French Soldiers in Marching Order.—The precaution taken to prevent our catching cold and to insure our comfort and health, I thought then, and think now, excessive. In the first place, if the weather were chilly, we were obliged to march in close order, for warmth. As the day grew warmer, the ranks were opened, so that we should not be incommoded by dust and perspiration. As soon as we began to perspire, delirious sergeants, captains, and lieutenants trotted about our columns, shouting to men to button up their coats if they opened them; and diminishing the quickness of our steps as we approached the halt; and when we did arrive at the halt, woe to the parched soldier who dare touch water until he received orders to do so. "Eat bread!" "Eat a few mouthful of bread before you drink!" "Rinse your mouth well out before you swallow a mouthful of water!" "Sit on your packs, and not on the ground!" "You, Sir! two days salle de police for lying down in the shade. Do you think we can drag fever and rheumatism about with us? Up with you! And you there, exposing your chest to the cold air; you'll be writhing like a corkscrew presently!" When we arrived at our destination, the bustle and hurry-scurry was greater. First duties over and the soup eaten, the officers seemed possessed; they stormed and shouted at the sight of a particle of dust or mud on a shoe; they caused trousers to be turned up to see that there were no damp feet; doctors flew about inquiring after sore heels; captains grew red in the face, and threatened prisons, dungeons, and even shooting and cutting into a million of little pieces, in their anxiety to see everything orderly and comfortably. Before sunset, whether it was bivouac or village, the regiment was as quiet as a church. Next morning everybody awoke refreshed and rather inclined for another march than otherwise.—All the Year Round.

Treasure and Trouble.—United States Commissioner Hyde of late has been occupied with the examination of a case which springs from the loss of that ill-fated treasure ship, the Golden Gate. Other than the rightful parties dove down and picked her bones as she lay at the bottom of the sea, recovering a large amount of treasure from her. A portion of this, some $25,000 in value, was shipped to this city by the wreckers, in the charge of Captain Serafino Garcia, commander of a coasting vessel. The captain of the wrecking sloop, whose name is Francisco, accompanied the treasure. This was the last heard of the money.

Suit was brought by the United States against Serafino Garcia for the recovery of the treasure, Henry Helman, one of the wrecking party, having turned States' evidence. There is a deal of romance in all the testimony given of groping among the ship's bones for gold—and it seems to be thought that about Helman's testimony there is too much romance to stand the test light of truth. He detailed several conversations he had had with Capt. Garcia, but not very clearly. He professed to be fluent in Spanish, but examination proved that his Spanish, like his evidence, was mixed. Commissioner Hyde, after a careful examination of all the points involved, rendered his decision to-day, discharging the defendant, Garcia. The reason of the decision is aux yeux, as the French say. Admitting that Helman's story of recovering $25,000 in gold coin and bars five minutes after reaching the wreck and its subsequent shipment to this city on Garcia's vessel, is true, one of the alleged owners accompanied it as a passenger and it came as freight. Delivered at its destination, Captain Garcia's connection with the affair was ended, and so admitting all of Helman's story to be true, Garcia would only figure as an agent in the transaction. The Commissioner thinks that at least $80,000 of the the treasure has been made away with by wreckers, but of course could not decide that in this instance the United States had any claim against Garcia.

A neat little dodge, it seems, was practiced by the wreckers when their sloop was searched by the Custom House officials in Manzanillo. They deposited their treasure in a canvass bag and let it slide down the cable to the anchor. Of course the officials, with the acumen that distinguishes the great world of inquisitors, immediately went to work and searched every box, cabin, cupboard and locker in the ship. The common run of detectives in these cases do not give men credit for possessing as much brains as they themselves possess. It seems never to occur to them that the man who desires to conceal a thing first asks of himself, Where will the searchers be likely to look? and there hides the object. A man of detective penetration in the matter would have hoisted the anchor, dragged the bottom of the vessel, or searched the bay over for buoys, at once. It would have occurred to him that the treasure, concealed within the limits of a small sloop, must be found, and that their only chance was to drop it overboard, with some means provided for its subsequent recovery. It were safe to bet that the Custom House people at Manzanillo will have an eye to anchors for the future.—S. F. Bulletin, June 20th.

Eloquent Extract.—The following is an extract from a Speech of Secretary Chase, in the Merchants' Exchange News Room, Boston, May 2d:

> It has been my misfortune to be at the head of a Department during the most critical period of the country's history. Suddenly involved in a great struggle, of which no man could see either the proportions or the end, it became my duty to provide the means of carrying it to a safe and successful result. In the discharge of this duty it is gratifying to acknowledge the support that I have uniformly received from the merchants and business men of Massachusetts. At the very outset of the struggle Massachusetts, by the act of her Legislature, placed at the disposal of the nation the sum of seven millions of dollars. We then thought that, in the probabilities of the war, this would be likely to cover the greater part of the expenditure. If the offer was not accepted, it was not the less appreciated; for in it I saw the spirit of Bunker Hill resolving that the last man should perish and the last dollar be expended rather than that the Union should fall. I received inspiration from this, and all my subsequent labors were made easier to me. I felt that with such a people there was no such word as fail written in the scroll of the future. And now, gentlemen, we have passed through two years of this war. I am not here to speak of mistakes made, nor of the best mode of rectifying them and; though we cannot predict the future, yet I really think that I do not risk much in saying that this war approaches its termination.—Gentlemen, you here in Massachusetts have a right to be proud of your contributions to the success of the financial measures of government; but you also have a right to be proud of your contributions to military skill and heroism of the struggle. Have you not given to this war a Banks, who is leading his troops to useful victories? [Applause.] Have you not given to this war a Butler [applause], who never feared mortal man in the discharge of his duty? Have you not given to it a Hooker [cheers], who is now striking a formidable blow at the rebellion between the Rappahannock and Richmond? So, in addressing Massachusetts men, I feel that I am addressing those to whom the country must feel under great obligations. Some people where I live speak of leaving Massachusetts and New England out in the cold. But do they think what they would lose if New England and the New England element be taken away from their midst? He thanked God that he was a New England boy, remarking that it had been said that New England was a grand place to emigrate from. He had found it a good place in which to receive an education and to form principles for the guidance of after life. He was born in granite-ribbed, stalwart New Hampshire, and he was proud of the brave old State. He loved New England for her contributions to the honor, the dignity and fame of the country; and more than all, because no one of her sons was willing that one foot of our soil should be separated from the Union.

The surgeon of a Massachusetts regiment, in a letter from Washington, N. C, after the siege was raised, says: "I must tell you of one hero who saved a company of soldiers from certain death. A flat boat of soldiers, with a few negroes, attempted to land at Rodman's Point, but were repulsed by a terrible fire of rebel bullets—all tumbling into the boat and lying flat to escape being shot. Meanwhile the boat stuck fast to the shore, when this noble African said: 'Somebody's got to die to git us out ob dis, and I reckon it may as well be me!' He then deliberately got out and pushed the boat off, and fell into it, pierced by five bullets.

Annual Exhibition at St. Mary's A emy.—The annual exhibition of St. M Academy in this city, took place on We day last, in presence of a large concou citizens. The exercises comprised voc instrumental music, embracing solos, du trios, and quartetts,—the several branch English and French languages, declama dialogues, examinations in history, ge phy, philosophy, and the entire range of ademical studies, from simple arithmet
the more complicated and sublime stu Astronomy. A portion of the exercises braced, also, a moral drama, "The Tw gents," the characters of which were a ably performed by the young ladies. An feature of the exhibition, was a descript a voyage through the United States and ada, with descriptions of all the remark places which are scattered throughout countries. The perfection and promp exhibited by the pupils who recited this position was also highly commended. M other pleasing features were introduced this occasion, but want of space precludes possibility of noticing them severally.
recitation hall was suitably decorated specimens of drawing, painting and embr ery, executed by the scholars. At the clusion of the exercises the following pr ums were awarded: First Ribbon of M
Miss Jane Kinney; Second ditto, Miss Luelling and E. Plamondon; Third d
Miss Augusta Mulkey; Fourth ditto, M M. Fleurot and E. Framblay. The first miums for astronomy, arithmetic, writ drawing, vocal music and embrodery awarded to Miss Adda Luelling. First mium for good conduct and for excellence the studies of botany, composition, gram and writing was awarded to Miss Joseph Mayer. Premium for good conduct and cellence in drawing and sewing awarde Miss Jane Kinney. First premium for m and housewifery awarded to Miss Elm Plamondon. Premium for diligence and study of astronomy was awarded to Miss A na Davis. Second premium for writing, d gence, and the study of botany, awarde Miss Clementine Mayer. The follow young ladies were awarded first premium
the branches enumerated: Familiar scien Miss M. Ferguson; arithmetic, Mary Ba enstos; analysis, Susan Collins; gramm and definitions, F. Seaman; reading, Mis
Emma Norwood and E. Barlow: spellin Martha Grooms and Mary Ebinger: dicta exercises, Kate Monastes; philosophy, Richardson and Louisa Beck; regular atte dance at school, Caroline Neibur; sacred h tory, Hattie Bacon; geography, Mary Whi good conduct, Josephine Roberts; housewi ry, Sarah J. Black; Second and third pr miums were also awarded to a number pupils in the above branches, but who names we are compelled to omit for the re sons before stated.

When the young ladies had received th wreaths and prizes awarded them, Miss Ja Kinney delivered a farewell address, whic was responded to by Archbishop Blanche after which the audience dispersed, expressin themselves highly pleased with the progre of the pupils and the interesting character the exercises presented.

Arrived.—The Wilson G. Hunt did n arrive last evening until about 6 o'clock, fro the Cascades, but when she did arrive sh arove in regular in A. No. 1, Jackson styl she did, "by the eternal," and she broug with her a full company of Jackson Fire Boy from the Dalles, who were duly received an escorted round to the different Engine House by the Portland Fire Department, and the to the Pioneer Hotel, where provision h been made for their accommodation, as th honored guests of the Fire Department of th city.

Sailed.—The Brother Jonathan sailed la night about 9 o'clock, for San Francisco, v
San Francisco. Wells, Fargo & Co. shipp $90,000, and other parties about $60,000, treasure.

Case of Rev. C. C. Stratton.—We lear from the Advocate, that the charges ma against Rev. C. C. Stratton, of committin serious crime against society, have been tho oughly investigated by an examining commi tee appointed by the Methodist Church, an also by the grand jury of Jackson county and a verdict of acquittal in both instance cheerfully rendered, with the further stat ment that it is believed the charge was n only false and unfounded, but malicious an willful.

"A man convinced against his will Is of the same opinion still."

Good advice is often wasted, or som folks wouldn't look so shabby within a wee of putting on a new suit of clothes. In spit of precept and example, many stupidly per sist in dealing at the first store they stumbl against, and lament their stupidity when to late. To insure a respectable appearance send your measure to Heuston, Hastings & Co., the great outfitters of Montgomery street corner of Sutter, San Francisco, and, our wor for it, you will not be disappointed. Shoul you prefer it, they will send forward to thei House in New York, and return the goods made to order, within sixty days of receivin your letter.

Would respectfully call the attention of the public generally, and to some of the citizens of Portland particularly, that he DOES NOT deal in Dry Goods, Boots, Shoes, Groceries, &c. &c., but he does desire to inform them that he is a Legitimate Practical Hatter, and has served a regular apprenticeship to become so. We deal in nothing but

HATS AND CAPS,

and have them in

Every Variety, Style, Color, Shape & Price

to be found in a first class Hatter's Store.

In selling a gentleman a Hat, we do not permit him to wear the same (if it be a Soft Hat) out of our establishment until the pudding creases have been removed; and if it be a stiff Hat, until it has been moulded and shaped to suit the particular formation of his head.

We do not ask a person a price expecting to fall to one-half the original price asked. BUT ONE PRICE and no abatement in our way of doing business.

That principle being understood, we solicit the patronage of the public generally. A. J. BUTLER,

DR. D. JAYNE'S

EXPECTORANT

AND SANATIVE PILLS

Have been before the public so long, and found such general favor in every region of country where they have been sold, (and there is no place on the civilized globe where they have not been sold) that it would seem almost superfluous at this time to direct attention to them through the medium of the press. Yet it is due to suffering humanity, and especially to that numerous class who, in the changeable climate of the Pacific Coast, suffer from

Diseases of the Lungs & Throat, inducing and ending in CONSUMPTION, many of whom may not have used this remedy, that they should be allowed to read of some of the cases where its influence has been useful in remedying complaints from which they are suffering. The EXPECTORANT

Operates immediately upon the Disease,

SURELY AND SPEEDILY ERADICATING IT,

while the SANATIVE PILLS, by preserving regularity in the Bowels, and giving a healthy tone to the other internal organs, aid and assist the perfect operation of the former.

Attention is asked to the following Certificates, selected at random from the mass in the possession of the proprietors:

Upper Uwchland, Chester Co., Pa., Sept 15, 1858.

Dr. D. Jayne—Having been afflicted with ASTHMA and BRONCHITIS, and having the advice of some of the most eminent physicians, whose skillful treatment of my case did not prove to be of any avail, I obtained no relief to my suffering until I commenced the use of your EXPECTORANT. After taking it for about three months, I was entirely cured. NATHAN PENNYPACKER.

Astoria, Long Island, Jan 15, 1860.

L. W. Tinelli, Esq., New York—Sir: As you well know I had been afflicted with BRONCHITIS, accompanied with the most painful tightness of the chest, and great difficulty in breathing for nearly two months, and I had almost lost all confidence in the power of medical science, when at your friendly suggestion, I began the well known (but not enough known) "EXPECTORANT" of Dr. Jayne, of Philadelphia. Three or four days after having commenced to take it, my cough had nearly subsided, the expectoration was easy, and the breathing quite free.

I am now quite another man, and my general health has never been better.

I remain, my dear Tinelli, with esteem, your servant and friend, J. B. MONTE.

Winfield, Tuscarawas Co., O., May 31, 1860.

Dr. D. Jayne—Dear Sir: One bottle of your Expectorant cured my daughter of the LUNG FEVER, after having been beyond the hopes of recovery. During the attack she had a number of convulsions. She is now perfectly well. J. H. COFFMAN.

Burlington, Bradford Co., Pa., July 29, 1863.

Dr. D Jayne—Dear Sir: My son was for one and a half years afflicted with a disease resembling CONSUMPTION. For two years he was not able to labor. He was finally induced to try your EXPECTORANT and PILLS, and after taking 10 bottles and some PILLS, was completely cured, and is now able to labor every day. JOHN HENRY.

We would add to the above that we sold to Mr Henry the medicine for his son, and know that the statement is true.
MERRY, WILHELM & CO.

For a greater number and variety of certificates, and fuller information regarding these and other of Dr D Jayne and Sons' Preparations, reference is given to the ANNUAL ALMANAC, which may be had from any Druggist or Dealer in Medicines.

FAMILY

SEWING MACHINE

Are unequaled by any for beauty, simplicity of construction and efficiency in working, and will do

IN A PERFECT MANNER,

A greater range of work than any other machine.

The value of a Sewing Machine cannot be estimated by the amount of wood, iron, brass or steel used in its construction, but by the manner in which these materials are put together, and the quantity and quality of the work it turns out. You can buy a watch or a piano-forte for very little money, but if you want either for your own use, you wish an article which can be reliedupon, and you will purchase accordingly.

LADD & WEBSTER'S

Sewing Machines

use a straight needle: curved ones are liable to break.

They make a tight lock-stitch, alike on both sides of the work, which cannot be ravelled.

Every machine is sent from our office threaded, with work under the needle ready for operation, accompanied with such explicit printed instructions as will enable persons who may never have seen a machine to teach themselves.

DR. BAKER'S

PAIN PANACEA.

Is composed entirely of healing gums, and vegetable oils and herbs. It is perfectly safe for the most delicate to use. I can most sincerely say that I have never known any, however delicate, to be injured by it in the least. I will continue to ask the afflicted, who have not used it, to try it for the following diseases; If they are not satisfied with its healing properties, the money will be cheerfully refunded by the agent where the medicine is for sale.

If you have pain in the stomach or bowels, try a dose of Pain Panacea internally, bathe externally over the parts affected and you will at once restore the proper action and relieve the pain.

If you have a Bruise or Wound, bathe it well with the Pain Panacea four times a day. It will relieve the pain, and take out all the poison, and heal the wound in a short time.

If you are suffering from Neuralgia or Rheumatism, apply the Pain Panacea freely, and take a dose of it internally, morning, noon and night; it will not only cure the pain, but will remove the cause of the disease.

If you have the Dyspepsia, and your food distresses your stomach after eating, take a dose of Pain Panacea after each meal.

If you have a Cankered or Sore Mouth or Throat, apply the Pain Panacea, to the affected parts, and gargle the mouth or throat three or four times a day.

If you have the Diarrhœa, or a relaxed state of the bowels, take a dose of Pain Panacea and they will soon be restored. If you have a painful swelling, bathe the parts freely and you will soon relieve pain, and the swelling will be reduced.

If you have a severe tooth-ache, apply the Pain Panacea on a piece of cotton and bathe gum at the same time; it will stop the pain instantly.

If you have a pain in the Breast, Side, Back or Kidneys, bathe the parts affected morning and night; at the same time take a dose of the Panacea internally.

If a Mother has a caked breast, apply the Panacea as hot as it can be borne.

If you feel chilly or cold, as though you were going to have a fever, take a dose of Panacea.

If you have a wound, cut or galls upon your horse, apply the Pain Panacea; it will take out all the inflammation and heal the sore in a short time.

Deacon Osgood's Cow 'Bet'

There was no more honest, plain and sincere man in the whole valley than Deacon Osgood He lived in a small, remote place named Morley Its inhabitants were few and sparse They had a small, shut-up meeting house in which they occasionally had a religious service, when any wandering son of Levi happened along, and was willing to give them a sermon But they had no minister, and the house grew shabby, and the schools were run down, and the people were indifferent to religious things, and every thing had a kind of mullein stalk look—dry and discouraged There was no public spirit, and the place seemed to be fast becoming driftwood, compared with the fresh trees of a fresh forest Deacon Osgood mourned and sighed alone At last the genius of goodness seemed to whisper in his ear

'Deacon Osgood, are you going to let things go to ruin—the whole of Morley—body and soul?'

'What can I do?'

'Act.'

'Yes, but I can't act alone, and the people won't stir. They are all dead What can I do?'

'Make up your mind what is best for them, and what they ought to do—and then—make them do it'

Deacon Osgood sat up that night alone very late What he thought, is not known He is not a talker But early the next morning he had old Kate harnessed, and was thirty miles from home And late he sat up talking with his friend, the Rev Jonas Faithful I don't know what he said, but Mr Faithful told his wife that he never heard eloquence before

Esquire Turnpenny was the most influential, (as was said,) and the richest man in town He loved money, and he loved land, and he loved cattle, and he loved anything that was property But he did not love religion, nor ministers, nor Sabbaths He professed to be an unbeliever, and yet he had quite a respect for Deacon Osgood 'The Deacon,' he used to say, 'is narrow-minded and superstitious, but he is consistent.'

The Deacon went to see Esquire Turnpenny A small part of the conversation only was heard.

'Now Deacon that's all moonshine You know I don't believe in these things, and I consider ministers a kind of moth upon society—worse than useless' I don't believe it, and I would not give that for all,'—and he snapped his fingers smartly

'But Esquire, the place is all running down.'

'I know it, and if you will bring in something productive—a real producer of property I'll do something handsome,'

'Well, Esquire, if you will agree to pay twenty dollars a year for five years—'

'And that's a round hundred—'

'I know it sir But if you will agree to pay twenty dollars yearly for five years and then if I cannot show that the place is richer in property than we have all paid the minister, I pledge myself to refund your hundred dollars.'

'Yes, but who shall be the judge?'

'You shall'

'Well, Deacon, if you are not a saint, you have the perseverance of the saints' And to show that I don't want to be mean, I now say, if at the end of five years, I allow the town is as much richer as all his salary, I will give you the best cow I have in the world'

Deacon Osgood made out in his own mind what each man could and ought to give, and then went and persuaded each man to do it In one week he had his salary subscribed, and then after a few more interviews with his friend, in a few weeks it was noised through the region that Morley had waked up, and had got a very nice minister—and it was said that Esquire Turnpenny had done it all' The Rev Jonas Faithful was the new minister

We pass over five years We only say that the whole face of the place was changed. One day as Deacon Osgood was passing, Esq Turnpenny called to him, saying he had some business with him So the Deacon went in There was a curious twinkle in the Esquire's eye, but he looked awful grave and solemn

'Well, Deacon, do you remember your bet?'

'Bet, sir' I never bet in my life

'We won't be particular about words But didn't you engage to pay a [illegible]'

'Be it so Now for your figures You will be candid How many apple trees are there growing in the place, more than there were five years ago?'

'I made an estimate yesterday I think all of two thousand'

'And how much more than their cost are they now worth'

'I would not sell mine for a dollar each But we will say fifty cents each'

'Well, Mr Faithful, as everybody allows, was the means of introducing these Put that item down at $1,000

That's fair'

'What say you to Joe and Sam Harlup? They were drunkards, they were just on the edge of ruin The minister labored with them and got them to sign the pledge and they are now sober, industrious citizens—I say nothing about their having joined the church But how much is each of their farms worth more than five years ago?'

'At least a thousand dollars'

'I should say more But you are judge Put it down at that and there are $2 000 Then he persuaded Ned Conklin to go to the Shakers and take on shares two swarms of bees And now how many swarms do you suppose there are in town? They did not cost a cent in money'

'I suppose there are one hundred—'

'And that number at $5 the swarm, is—'

Five hundred dollars'

'And he taught and urged Tim Sweetser to make maple sugar, and he has sold $100 worth every year, which is—'

Five hundred dollars more'

'He showed Arthur Spring how to flow his meadow and to raise cranberries—and he has sold $100 worth And now, Esquire, how much more are your Ayrshire cattle worth to you than was your stock before Mr Faithful called your attention to this breed?'

'Perhaps five hundred dollars'

'I'll stop here How much do you make the gain of the town by this reckoning?'

'Four thousand and six hundred dollars' Who would have thought this?'

'Now Esquire, I say nothing about the spiritual good resulting—such as the conversion of your sweet daughter Lucy, and your son James, now fitting for college, with three more from this place—all hoping to be ministers' You know it all Shall I pay you back the hundred dollars?'

The Esquire rose hastily His chin quivered He only said 'I am satisfied,' and left the room, and the Deacon went on his way

The next morning the Esquire's best cow, 'Bet,' was found in the Deacon's yard, and another in the minister's yard, each with a kind note tied to her horn—'a token of regard from her late owner'

The people all wondered how it was that the Deacon and the minister could get the two best cows the Esquire had, when nobody else could get one for love or money! But the Deacon kept his own counsel, and everybody said the Esquire is the most influential man in town, and he got the minister'

But good Deacon Osgood thanks God, and is only afraid he is to be too well paid in this life—otherwise he has great enjoyment in his favorite cow 'Bet'

[illegible] that which has been caused by the deaths and devastation which inevitably accompany war In death and devastation the rebel States have suffered a terrible punishment for their wicked and causeless revolt But the leaders of the rebellion have possessed the power from the start to put a stop to the ravages of war by simply laying down their arms and submitting to the legitimate authority of the National Government

Another Hero —An incident in the siege of Washington is given in a letter from a Massachusetts officer from which it is copied in the Boston [illegible] When the pilot of the steamer [illegible] was shot in the head, he grasped the tiller for twelve minutes afterward, steering his boat safely beyond the rebel battery, exclaiming that if he could only take Gen Foster safely by, he was willing to die He accomplished his wish, and nobly perished in the performance of his duty

A certain Monsieur Crockett, at present the favorite lion tamer of Paris recently offered, in a rash moment, a defiance to the world, whereby he promised to give twelve thousand five hundred francs to any one who would dare to enter his cage of lions A retired ruler of bears, living on his income, accepted the offer at once, more than that, a Belgian, who, as he says, "exercises" merely out of love for the art and as a simple amateur, gives to Monsieur Crockett a challenge on his part, "Enter if you dare," says he, "into the cage of my white bear I will go farther if you are not afraid of risking your animals, I will put into their cage four other lions, two great bears and two hyenas, and then I will go in myself." The result of this startling proposition, if it was accepted is not yet announced.

[illegible] incident of the power to borrow money, sustains in principle the decision in the case made in the Rochester District, viz. that Congress may make Treasury Notes a legal tender, as necessary and proper for the purpose of giving to them the credit and currency [illegible]

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL, FOR THE RAPID CURE OF Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIMFIELD MASS 20th Dec, 1855
DR J C AYER I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness [illegible] and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints
EBEN KNIGHT M D

A B MORTLEY, Esq, of UTICA N Y writes "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty five dollars for a bottle than do without it [illegible] remedy"

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.
SPRINGFIELD, Miss, Feb 7, 1856.
BROTHER AYER I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup and the chest diseases of children We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill and commend your medicine to our people.
HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq MONTEREY IA writes, 3d Jan, 1856 "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks took many medicines without relief finally tried your PECTORAL by the advice of our clergyman The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs less than one half the bottle made me completely well Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend"

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.
WEST MANCHESTER, Pa, Feb 4, 1856.
SIR Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years.
HENRY L PARKS, Merchant.

A A RAMSEY, M D ALBION MONROE CO, IOWA, writes, Sept. 6, 1856 During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients or curing such as are curable"

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial

Consumption.
Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this Some no human aid can reach but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE NEW YORK CITY March 5, 1856.
DOCTOR AYER LOWELL I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption from which [illegible] could procure gave her much relief She was steadily failing until Dr. Strong of this city where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine [illegible] for she has recovered from that day She is not yet as strong as she used to be but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.
Yours with gratitude and regard,
ORLANDO SHELBY, of Shelbyville.

Consumptives do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world and its cures all round us bespeak the high merits of its virtues — [illegible]

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man [illegible] these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease [illegible]

[illegible]

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn Headache arising from a foul Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels and Pain arising therefrom, Flatulency Loss of Appetite all Ulcerous and Cutaneous Diseases which require an evacuant Medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil They also by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach such as Deafness Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on Ask for AYER'S PILLS and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.
